THERE'S NO SUCH THING AS LONG-DISTANCE

With Foreign-Exchange Numbers -From Alascom

You can turn any long-distance call into a local call — with an Alascom Foreign-Exchange telephone number. For example, if you have a home office in Anchorage, and a branch office in Bethel, you can give your Bethel phone an Anchorage telephone number. So all calls from Anchorage to your Bethel phone become toll-free to the calling party. And any calls made from Bethel are billed as if they came from Anchorage.

A Foreign-Exchange number can be set up for any telephone in Alaska. In many cases, it's an easy way for you to cut down on your long-distance phone bill, and it lets far-away customers get in touch with you, without cost to them.

Alascom offers many other cost-saving business services in addition to Foreign-Exchange — including off-premise extensions, tie lines, and hotlines. For more information, call Alascom's Marketing Department at 264-7139. Outside Anchorage, call free by asking the long-distance operator for toll-free Zenith 6500.
