

SUBSISTENCE LIVING — During last year's whaling celebration at the far northwest village of Point Hope, two men are cutting up the flukes of one of the whales into slices to be passed around to the village audience, a tradition started long, long years ago. Whaling at this community begins around the middle of April and lasts till about the last week of May.

—National Park Service Photograph by ROBERT BELOUS