

Forest Service just might have a summer job for you

JUNEAU — For the first time in Alaska, new applicants for temporary, seasonal employment with USDA Forest Service units on the Ketchikan Area, Tongass National Forest and Chugach National Forest in Anchorage, Cordova, and Seward will be hired through Alaska State Employment Service offices.

A variety of openings in Forestry, Biological, Engineering Aide, and Technician field positions are available for the 1988 season on both of these units. The Forest Service, in cooperation with the State, is testing a program to utilize Alaska's employment offices for recruitment, screening and referral of applications for temporary positions on these units.

Forest Service offices at Sitka, Juneau, Hoonah, Petersburg, and Wrangell will continue to utilize the summer seasonal temporary employment process to fill their temporary positions. Recruiting dates for these vacancies are Dec. 1 through Jan. 15, 1988. Applications must be postmarked by Jan. 15, to be considered. An application form 6100-23 and instructions may be obtained from any Forest Service office.
