

VA trying to reach female vets

In a continuing effort to reach female veterans who may be eligible for a special GI Bill payment, the Veterans Administration is sending letters to 75,000 women who attended school under the GI Bill between June 1, 1966 and Oct. 24, 1972.

They are being notified of retroactive allowances to equalize payments with male veterans who were married while in training.

To receive the lump sum of about $30 per month for each month she was in GI Bill training, the veteran must furnish proof of marriage while in training.

A form is provided on the reverse of the letter which must be mailed to the VA regional office before July 1.
