

Credit where credit due

The Tundra Times inadvertently left off the credit for a poem entitled "Durable Breath" by John Smelcer which appeared in our last issue.

Smelcer teaches English at the University of Alaska Anchorage, and his last book of poetry The Caribou And The Stone Man was published by Grayling Press. He is Associate Poetry Editor for Salmon Run Press, and his poems have recently appeared in Artful Dodge, The Literary Review, Poetry Australia, Permafrost, The Dog River Review, The International Quarterly, and fathoms. He is currently co-editor of an anthology of contemporary and traditional northwest American Indian literature to be published by University of Washington Press.