

ACRES offers rural jobs

The American Council on Rural Special Education (ACRES) offers a nationwide system to link educators and administrators needing jobs with rural schools having vacancies. Rural school job vacancies of all types are stored in a computerized Rural Job Data Bank.

School administrators who wish to list job vacancies with the system submit an Educational Positions Available Form. This form includes the type of personnel needed, qualifications, salary range and other essential job information.

Educators who wish to list with this service submit an Educator/Administrator Available Form. A computer search is then done to match the educator's preferences and qualifications with jobs stored in the Data Bank.

Fees for use of the system are nominal. For further information contact: ACRES Rural Jobs Services, Box 2470, University Station, Murray State University, Murray, KY 42071.
