 CONSERVATION PROGRAM
 RURAL RESIDENTIAL ENERGY
 AUDITOR TRAINING

Rural communities are invited to participate in the training segment of the Division of Energy and Power Development's pilot Rural Residential Energy Conservation Program. The courses listed below are offered to train and certify home energy auditors. Participants registered by their communities will receive intensive training on heat loss evaluations and methods of home energy conservation.

To register, a community must send a letter or telegram, including name(s) of student(s), number of student(s), address and phone number of community representative, and desired location for training. Send to:

PAT WOODILL
 Rural Residential Energy Conservation Program
 Alaska Division of Energy and Power Development
