

Barrow News

By GUY OKAKOK
Barrow Correspondent

FAIRBANKS — The plane left early from Barrow around 3 a.m. after a young man had accident, board him on plane and his grandmother, Mrs. Kenton, came down with him to Fairbanks took him over to Memorial Hospital.

This young man's name is Arthur Kingosak, Eskimo. He had 22 bullet wound on his body, now Arthur is recovering. Good thing the bullet did not go in deep.

Mrs. Kenton said she will leave tomorrow as her grandson is recovering.

TROOPERS

According to the visitors from Barrow to Fairbanks said today that the troopers who are at Barrow are very hard to contact. They said each time when Eskimos called at the troopers for help, they'd make excuses, they never came.

And that is not right, after all, troopers get paid and should alert all the time. And lots of Eskimos don't like it all. They said they hoping to see the trooper do better from now on.

ESKIMO DANCE PROGRAM

Eskimo dancing program is on the way. Anyone who is interested in seeing the program, come and visit us. You can't never miss this one. It's down at Alaskaland Native Village. Don't miss it!

The program will continue daily at 2:00 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. It's in igloo near river.

WHALE CAUGHT

Rex A. Okakok, who is in Gambell, St. Lawrence Island, send a message from there that Gambell whalers caught a whale last week.

MARKED FISH

Miss Betty Aknatook who recently moved to Fairbanks from Barrow, caught a fish yesterday with a marker on. She said she will turn it over to Fish and Wildlife soon as possible.

Betty was born at Barrow and after her parents died, she moved to Fairbanks.