Finding of No Significant Impact (FNSI)
Final Environmental Assessment (EA)
Construction of a Federal Scout Armory at Marshall, Alaska

The Alaska Army National Guard has issued a FNSI regarding proposed construction of a new federal Scout armory in Marshall, Alaska. The preferred alternative is to construct a 1,500 square foot metal building on a 10,000 square foot gravel pad on city land which has been leased to the Government. The No Action alternative would mean the proposed armory would not be built. Anticipated environmental impacts are expected to be minor. The armory is supported by the City of Marshall, and would provide long-term positive socio-economic benefits to the community. A Corps of Engineer's Section 404 permit has been obtained. Comment deadline is October 2, 1995.

Copies of the final EA and the FNSI are available for public review at the National Guard Armory, Ft. Richardson, Alaska, 8:00 AM - 4:00 PM, M-F, 428-6762.

For information, copies of the EA and FNSI, or to comment on the FNSI, please contact: Helen Lons, Environmental Specialist, Alaska Army National Guard, Environmental Section, P.O. Box 5800, Fort Richardson, Alaska 99505, (907) 428-6766.
