

Mountain Clark . . . Buffy Ste. Marie . . .

(Continued from Page 1)

his tactics "Cherokee Strikes." Among other awards, he earned the Navy Cross, Silver Star Medal, and Legion of Merit with Combat "V." He served as assistant chief of Naval Operations for Air from 1946-48.

After his retirement in 1953, Admiral Clark served with a New York investment firm and a number of volunteer organizations. He died in 1971.

At the outbreak of the Civil War, General Watie, as did most Cherokees, tried to avoid being drawn into the war. However, circumstances soon found him

Dr. Tooté

(Continued from Page 1)

St. Mary's, Sandpoint, Togiak, Savoonga and Gambell.

The prototype units were designed by HUD with consultation with tribal leaders and other federal agencies, Tooté said. Construction is to begin in spring, 1975, with projected completion in 1976. The Bureau of Indian Affairs is handling the development of the housing, Indian Health Service is handling the water and sewers and HUD is funding the construction.

Tooté said HUD will be checking on the construction firms to see that they comply with equal opportunity hiring practices.

This will be especially important with this project she explained, so that persons working on the construction of the units can be trained to continue with maintenance of the structures once they are built.

She said her tour of several towns and villages here has made more clear the unique problems Alaska has in construction.

"The distances are so great and the earth is not cooperative," she said, almost making the cost of construction prohibitive. HUD will get assurance from Congress however, for funding to the extent needed to overcome construction problems here, she said.

Dr. Tooté was sworn in as assistant secretary in June, 1973. She was nominated for the position by former President Nixon in May that year. She came to HUD from ACTION where she served as assistant director and directed the office of voluntary action liaison from October 1971 to May 1973.

Prior to joining the administration, Tooté was president of Tooté Town Publishing, Inc., and was president of Recording Studios, Inc. from 1966 to 1970. She engaged in private law practice in New York City and is a former member of the editorial staff of the national affairs section of Time Magazine.

She said she has experienced discrimination in her career as both a woman and a black. "At first the discrimination was racial," she said, "but I've noticed that more recently it has been because of my sex."

She said the position of secretary is one of the most subtle yet worst forms of discrimination she knows.

"Originally a secretary was someone who typed and took shorthand. Now these women are really administrative aides, they run their offices and get paid as a typist."

She pointed out that the state of Maryland has changed the classification for state employees there to distinguish between secretaries and aides.

"More professional women strive to their maximum ability," she said, "because they feel they have to do better than anyone else."

in charge of a home guard unit which became the Cherokee Mounted Rifles regiment.

One of his engagements was an overwhelming victory in the battle of Wilson's Creek. He was one of the last confederate officers to surrender, yielding up his sword in June, 1865.

Among those expected to take part are Admiral Clark's widow, the former Olga Choubaroff, who lives in New York.

Also participating in the ceremony Oct. 5 was retired Vice Admiral Bernard M. Streen, who commanded a fighter squadron aboard the Yorktown when Admiral Clark was the skipper. Admiral Streen will be the dedicatory speaker for the Mt. Clark dedication.

Retired Army General William C. Westmoreland, U.S. Army, will make the dedicatory remarks for the naming of Mount Watie. General Westmoreland commanded U.S. Forces in Vietnam and was Army Chief of Staff before retiring. He is a native of South Carolina.

The Cherokee Fall Festival began in 1914 as a Thanksgiving celebration. It has grown into a gathering of the entire Cherokee nation and features Indian songs, dances and crafts.

attended last year.

Besides Buffy, Alaska Governor William A. Egan is expected to speak along with Washington State Congressman Lloyd Meeds, Bureau of Indian Affairs Commissioner Morris Thompson, Senators Mike Gravel and Ted Stevens and Congressman Don Young, and others.

The price of admission is straight across the line at $15 per person. There will be a cocktail hour from 6:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. at which time the banquet will begin. The dress for the occasion will be semi-formal.

Attending the banquet will be people from Seattle, Washington, Washington, D. C. and New York. A large number of people from Fairbanks will be coming to the feast and from all corners of Alaska.

Since the banquet is being held some two weeks before the general election on November 5, 1974, prominent politicians and their friends are expected to participate.

The banquet is being held in conjunction with the Alaska Federation of Natives, Inc.

Tickets for the annual affair are available for sale at the office of the Tundra Times at the Chena Building (2nd Avenue), Room 220 in Fairbanks. The ticket sale locations in the City of Anchorage are in the process of being arranged.

The board of directors of the Tundra Times and its newspaper staff gratefully extend their thanks to Alaska Senator Ted Stevens' office in Washington for making extensive efforts to engage Buffy Ste. Marie to perform at the Tundra Times banquet.

EXHIBIT AT ARTS CENTER

The Visual Arts Center of Alaska, a non-profit corporation, welcomes the public to an exhibition of works produced in the center from March to the present.

The show features prints, sculpture, and weaving in a variety of styles and techniques by Alaskan artists associated with the center.

The Visual Arts Center is located on International Airport Road directly across from the terminal and Post Office in Anchorage.

Guardsmen . . .

(Continued from Page 1)

Ready Reservists as those assigned to units or positions in which they are required to perform active duty, or active duty for training. In addition, they must be scheduled for at least 12 periods of inactive training each year that is creditable for retirement purposes.

As in the active military service, premiums are collected by the branch of service in which the Reservists performs duty.

Huntington

(Continued from Page 1)

big game we have in Alaska (because) we are at this time on the way to complete destruction and obliteration of game resources in Alaska, unless we do something about it now," he said.

Trapper, hunter and author of the book "On the Edge of Nowhere," Huntington seeks to represent a large district stretching from Hooper Bay on the Bering Sea to Hughes and Allakaket to McGrath. The district is comprised of primarily small Athabascan and Eskimo villages.

Active in Native affairs in the Interior, Huntington has served as chief of Huslia and on its village council, and as mayor of the city of Galena and on the Galena City Council. He is also a board member of Doyon, Limited.

Your inflation fighter...

receive the highest rate of interest allowed by law on Time Certificates of Deposit, and on Regular Saving Accounts.

If you want your savings immediately available at all times, fine. We have just the plan for you. And it pays the highest interest the law allows on that type of plan.

But if immediate availability isn't all that important, you can earn more. How much more depends on how long you leave your money with us.

Each of these plans pays the highest interest the law allows. And National Bank of Alaska compounds continuously to give you an extra edge.

If the higher earnings look good to you but you're still concerned about an unexpected need for cash, note this: any of these plans can be collateral for a fast emergency loan.

Type of Account	Highest Rate Allowed by Law
Regular Saving Account	5%
Time Certificates of Deposit* (of less than $100,000.00)
30 to 89 days	5%
90 days to 1 year	5½%
1 year Maturity	6%
2 year Maturity	6%
3 year Maturity	6½%
4 year Maturity	7½%

*Federal Reserve Regulation Q requires a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal.

NATIONAL Bank of Alaska

Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and Federal Reserve System

We're here on YOUR account!