

Publication Poses the Indian Philosophy on Education

This publication is a unique first of its kind. It is composed entirely by Indian authors and all the authors are Indian doctoral students at the University of South Dakota, Vermillion,

There has been issued many philosophies of Indian Education — statements of basic beliefs about how Indians should be educated — most of them written by non-Indians.

For the first time, a statement of basic beliefs about how Indian children should be educated has been worked out by Indian people themselves, all of them highly academically qualified.

This 51-page booklet entitled "An Indian Philosophy of Education" is written by 10 doctoral level Indian authors and is edited by John F. Bryde.

It is available for $1 from: State-Wide Educational Services, University of South Dakota, Vermillion, S.D., 57069.
