

RATNet to show Convention live

The Alaska Federation of Natives' 23rd Annual Convention will be broadcast live from Anchorage, Oct 19-21, on the Rural Alaska Television Network.

"AFN is very pleased to have the continued support of Alascom and RATNet to provide such outstanding coverage of our convention," said AFN President Janie Leask.

"This coverage is a valuable service to Native people in rural Alaska, Leask said. "It will allow people throughout the state to share in our workshops and panel discussions."

Ross Soboleff of Sealaska Corp. and Julie Petro with the NANA Regional Corp. will co-anchor the coverage from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day.