

Weather

Heavier than normal snowfall characterized weather conditions in southeastern Alaska during February. A total of 64 inches was measured at Yakutat. Arctic Coastal Areas were even drier than usual, with conditions else-where in the state near normal.