

Hooray for Sealaska

A hearty hand of congratulations should be extended to the officers, board members and shareholders of Sealaska Corp. which last week was included on Fortune Magazine's top 1,000 corporations list.

Sealaska was number 951 of 1,000 on the prestigious publications "who's who" of American businesses.

The Sealaska position in nationwide business is doubly good because the corporation was formed only 10 years ago and was granted its land under Native Claims only three years ago.

Sealaska's growth and success is an example to all the Native corporations in the state and is a credit to the good management and dedication of all connected with the the corporation.
