

Office gets chairs

The Tundra Times Anchorage office is now luxuriously equipped with 11 chairs. 'Conducting business, writing, and greeting guests was just too uncomfortable and time consuming with one chair,' explains the paper's office manager Sophie Gutierrez.

Written requests and personal visits to the other Tundra Times chairs and furniture sitting at places proved fruitless. 'Knock on wood, they'll come home sooner or later. It's a knotty issue,' says production manager Anna Pickett. The Tundra Times has been pining over its waywood inventory for months and can't see the forest for the trees.
