To Wien Air Alaska Management

The striking Wien pilots want to return to work. We have a legitimate concern for the corporate health of our company. Let's stop this mutual self destruction and get negotiations re-opened. If indeed the two-man vs. three-man crew complement issue is the major point of contention that separates us, then let's negotiate the other issues. We are publicly stating our readiness to arbitrate the B-737 crew complement. Let the case be held up to the clear light of scrutiny by a neutral arbitration panel. Whatever is decided after all the evidence is in we will abide by the ruling.

Of one thing we're convinced, no ones interest is served by allowing this strike to continue. Not ours, not the company or its stockholders, and certainly not the public.

From the Wien Air Alaska Pilots

Sincerely,

Capt. Ron A. Wood
Master Executive Chairman
Wien Air Alaska Council #58
