

Fire Safety course for kids set

Fire Safety Education story

A special Fire Safety Education Program is to be televised on Oct. 24, at 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. (Anchorage Time) by Rural Alaska Television Network and the University of Alaska's Learn Alaska Network.

"Sesame Street," US Fire Administration, University of Alaska, and Alaska's State Fire Marshal's Office are cooperating in the production of the project.

The program will include "Big Bird," "Susan," and other Sesame characters who will team up to give instruction on how to teach fire safety to 3-to-five-year-old children. The program will be televised live from the Anchorage studio, and a toll free telephone capability will be available for call-in questions during the tele-cast.