

Ketchikan art workshop scheduled

The Totem Heritage Center will present a workshop concerning "The Business of Being an Artist" on Jan. 6 and 7.

Presentors Kathy Johnson-Kuhn and Marlene Scanlon, local gallery owners will discuss marketing options from 7-9 p.m. Jan. 6.

Larry McNeil, Anchorage photographer, will demonstrate techniques involved in taking slides or photos to display the artists works from 9-12 noon on Jan. 7.

Lillian Ference of Ketchikan Job Service will present information regarding resume and portfolio preparation from 1-4 p.m. Saturday afternoon.

Jean Flanagan, director of the Institute of Alaska Native Arts will be in attendance to explain the services offered to Native artists by her organization.

The workshop is co-sponsored by the City of Ketchikan and the State Council on the Arts. Registration is $50. Further information is available from the Center by phoning 907-225-5900.