

NRCI Citizen's Advisory Committee

The Citizen's Advisory Committee for the Northern Regional Correctional Institution in Fairbanks has been formed.

The committee was formed to represent labor, Youth and Adult Authority, business, religion, education and press media.

Appointed to the committee were: Tom Miklautsch, business; Era Lown, education; Rev. Hickox, religion; Raymond W. May, Youth and Adult Authority; Howard

Rock, press.

The appointments were made by Morgan Grude, superintendent of the NRCI, and Walt Jones, regional administrator for the Northern Region.

The purpose of the committee is to acquaint the members with the needs of the community support in regard to the programs of the field of correction, prisoners, parolees, and persons on probation.

The committee will also work to educate the community what needs the above persons have and work as a liaison to situate them back into society for their protection and protection of society.

The group met for the first time on April 23 at the Fairbanks Jail, or the Northern Regional Correctional Institution.

The group discussed the problems of juveniles who ran into difficulties with the law in rural areas and how these young people are sometimes not accepted back by their families after they were released by the Youth and Adult Authority.

Work furlough for prisoners recently authorized by state legislature was discussed. A very strict classification of the inmates will be mandatory to decide their eligibility.

Next meeting will discuss subjects in general in connection with the correctional efforts and to become familiar with them.
