

MINORITIES AND JUSTICE CAREERS SUMMER 1990

UAA will again offer an intensive summer program for Alaska Natives and other minorities interested in pursuing careers in the justice system.

The course, which will run during June, will introduce students to the variety of career possibilities in law, corrections, the court system, and police work. The program is designed particularly for Alaska Natives and other minorities who have completed some college-level study, but it is open to all seeking a practically-oriented perspective on the justice field.
