

Earth Day in Emmonak

Emmonak School celebrated Earth Day recently with speeches by elders and students. Also featured were songs, plays and exhibits about the environment prepared by the elementary and high schools. In the afternoon of Earth Day — April 27 — students also participated in classroom letter-writing projects and then crushed hundreds of pounds of aluminum cans which they will send to Anchorage for recycling. Emmonak officials said they hope to continue the enthusiasm for the environment. Photos include, above, Katherine Moore participates in a panel discussion on recycling in Emmonak. Above left, in an all-school project, Emmonak seventh grader Buddy Kameroff, smashes one more pop can for recycling. At left, Emmonak's fifth grade put on a cleanup play during Earth Day celebration.

photos by Jerry Peverall