

Fur Rondy 1990

The 1990 Fur Rendezvous drew people from throughout Alaska to participate in the fun. Ruth Kowekluk of Anchorage, at top, tends a booth and works on a bead project at the All Alaska Native Arts and Craft show during Rondy. Many activities are held in conjunction with Fur Rondy, including the Native Musicale. The Barrow Choir, center right, performs at the Anchorage West High theater during the musicale Feb. 16. At right, a totem pole carved by Stuart A. Benson was on display at the wood working exhibit at the Egan Convention Center. Ben See, left in center left photo, and Jarred See take in the Native Musicale.
