STATE OF ALASKA

Executive Proclamation

by

Steve Couper, Governor

Fetal Alcohol Syndrome (FAS) is a leading cause of birth defects in Alaska and is the most common cause of mental retardation.

FAS usually results in serious health problems for these children. Children with FAS often need extraordinary medical attention and lifelong special care. The cost of care for FAS children is enormous for families and government and the quality of life of FAS children is diminished.

The harmful FAS creates can be reduced if pregnant women and women who plan to become pregnant abstain from alcohol consumption. Additionally, research is now indicating the father's alcohol consumption may impact the health of his unborn children.

FAS is preventable through public education about the effects of alcohol on unborn children and through individual efforts on the part of pregnant women to abstain from alcohol consumption.

NOW THEREFORE, I, Steve Couper, Governor of the State of Alaska, do hereby proclaim the week of May 13-19, 1990 as:

Alcohol-Related Birth Defects Awareness Week

in Alaska, and urge all residents to learn the effects of alcohol on unborn children and to give support to women who make the wise decision not to drink during pregnancy.
