Lets Find Pat Another Bush Hat

A good friend of the Tundra Times recently suffered a great loss which we promised to try to help him overcome. A tragic fire in November destroyed completely a tent and all earthly possessions of Paschel Afcan, of the Center for Northern Education Research and the Eskimo Language Workshop.

Pat wasn't especially concerned about the loss of his worldly possessions, but he was much disturbed over the loss of his best friend, a genuine Australian bush hat.

Our friend Pat is still not quite himself, although he is presently trying to make do with a wool cap. If any of our readers knows where Pat can obtain a new Australian bush hat, we would be grateful if that reader would let us know.

Pat just doesn't look the same in wool.
