

Learn Lessons Then—

Two Tourists Ignore Warning: Splash!

BARROW, (Special)— The dance group from Barrow are all ready to face the new dancers who will participate in this coming Eskimo Olympic program which will be placed in Fairbanks on 9th of August through 12th.

Barrow dance group are now ready to go down anytime they are called to go.

Where are we going to stand next after this Olympic program?

MORE THAN EVER

Our town street was swamped with people for three days, never was this way before.

After all when three planes all loaded with tourist came in and looked for arts works, yet some were kind and disappointed when they couldn't find a real craft shop here in Barrow.

They had to go back that very same day. Why? it's because they really couldn't stay overnight, no place to sleep. Both hotels were full and some stays in other houses.

DON'T GO, BUT

Warning comes too late. Two tourist were warned not to go out through thin ice, but, instead, they walked out and both can't stay on their feet, they kept on slipping as ice is very slippery that day.

One tourist lost her balance and went right to the puddle and got wet.

They both learn their lessons then.

IT'S UNBELIEVABLE

Who ever does it? I mean skinning the seal in less than three minutes. They have done it here in Barrow.

"WOW," what a sharp ula this woman may have!

HAVING TROUBLE

Today, after we had talk together with the new visitors from outside of Alaska, we bid farewell to these people when they walked to their plane.

This plane took off didn't have no trouble at all. And after 15 or more minutes this same plane came back with one motor going.

She landed perfectly with one motor running.

FINALLY

Our Arctic ice finally opens and boats could go out through the ice channels. Which means, hunters here could go out and walrusing, not only that, but, caribouing too.

"NOT QUITE"

Lot of tourists after they had tour between here and Browsersville some would say that they have stepped or walked on the Top of the World sand.

I would tell them that they are not quite yet to the Top. I'd tell them that real Point is always yet, about ten miles.

After they had heard my word, they really wanted to go up and see it Point. But, the problem is, the transportation. Unless someone takes them up with their boats.

Good luck, readers.
