

Karl Armstrong Resigns Post

JUNEAU—Gov. Walter J. Hickel's office announced the resignation this week, effective last Monday, of Karl Armstrong as state Director of Information.

Armstrong is returning to Kodiak to fill a recently-vacated position as editor of the Kodiak Daily Mirror. He served in the same position prior to his state appointment on July 1 of this year.

As director of information for the state, Armstrong's duties included the organization and supervision of the public information activities of state departments.

A native of Kodiak, Armstrong is a charter member and former board member and chairman of the Kodiak Area Native Association. Before joining the Mirror in 1956, he worked for the Anchorage Daily News and Radio Station KBYR in Anchorage.

The Mirror, published by S. Wayne Kotula, converted to daily publication last spring.
