

NEED A NEW HEART?—The tall, handsome man is the South African surgeon, Dr. Christiaan Bernard, first to transplant a human heart. Standing alongside him with what some have described as a longing look is Senator Bob Bartlett of Alaska, twice the victim of heart difficulties in the last two years. The two met at a luncheon given in Washington by Senator Lister Hill of Alabama. Note: Dr. Bernard made no transplant offer.