

THIS & THAT AT THE FNA NATIVE POTLATCH

GOVERNOR DANCES—Gov. Walter J. Hickel is apparently enjoying an Eskimo dance in which he took part on March 16 at the Fairbanks Native Association native potlatch in which 2,000 people attended. The governor also danced an Athabascan Indian dance. Many varieties of food were served the big crowd. Some non-natives said, "Some of them had very interesting flavors. I ate some muktuk and it was good and chewy." The FNA potlatch has been growing in popularity year by year and the large Monroe High School auditorium in which it was held this year was hardly large enough to hold the big crowd.

—TUNDRA TIMES Photo

ATHABASCANS—Chief Andrew Isaac, center, the FNA potlatch on March 16, is leading his Tanacross Indian dancers at

—STAFF PHOTO

INTERESTED SPECTATOR—Elmer Rasmuson of Anchorage enjoyed the potlatch. Rasmuson is seeking election for U.S. Senate on the Republican ticket. Happy couple in the background is Mr. and Mrs. Jim Babb.

—STAFF PHOTO