

Bob Arnold Works with Natives—

Bob Mistaken for W.C. Arnold

Robert D. (Bob) Arnold, Native Affairs Officer for the Federal Field Committee for Planning in Alaska, has been made to feel a bit uncomfortable lately because of being mistaken for W.C. Arnold who has been writing a column for The Anchorage Daily Times attacking the Alaska Federation of Natives' land bill.

Bob Arnold is the man who played a great part in the compilation of the 565-page Alaska Natives and the Land, a proposal by the Federal Field Committee for solution of the native land claims in Alaska.

The large book has been a source of important information for the senators and congressmen in Washington, D.C. in the consideration of land bills now before Congress.

Robert D. (Bob) Arnold works closely with the AFN on native affairs.
