

Earl Warrer, Jr. to Attend Mental Health Conference

Judge Earl Warren Jr. of the Municipal Court of Sacramento, Calif., will arrive in Anchorage for Alaska's first State Mental Health Planning Conference, Nov. 28-30, at the Alaska Methodist University auditorium, according to Dr. Helen H. Beirne, president of the Alaska Mental Health Association.

Judge Warren has worked actively for the establishment of increased mental health services for many years. He has served as president of the Sacramento Area Mental Health Association, and as a regional vice president and member of the board of the national association.

Further, Judge Warren has been a forceful spokesman for community mental health programs on important bodies, Dr.

Beirne said. He is a member of the Governor's Advisory Board on Mental Health (California), a commissioner of the Sacramento City Planning Commission, a member of the Citizens' Advisory Committee to the Workable Program (Sacramento), among others.

Prior to his appointment to the Bench, Judge Warren practiced law in Sacramento and was an instructor in law at Sacramento State College.

Judge Warren, a native Californian, attended the University of California and received his LLB degree at Berkeley.

Friday, Nov. 28, Judge Warren will speak at the Captain Cook Hotel. A no-host cocktail precedes the dinner at 8 p.m.
