

University of Alaska to Host Minerals Meet

Mineral industries leaders from throughout the U. S. and Canada will converge on the University of Alaska campus May 23-26 for the 1967 Alaska Purchase Centennial Minerals Conference.

"Development of the North's Mineral Resources" will be the theme of the conference. The program will cover new developments, techniques and research in the mineral industries field.

Topics will include: "Success in New Mine Findings," "Foreign Markets for Alaska's Minerals," "New Approaches to Placer Mining," "Nuclear Explosions Applied to the Minerals Industry" and "Recent Changes in Mining Law."

All conference programs will be open to the public. Reservations or further information may be obtained by contacting the College of Earth Sciences and Mineral Industries, University of Alaska, College, Alaska, 99701.