

Richards appointed professor at APU

Robert Richards, former candidate for governor, has been appointed visiting professor at Alaska Pacific University.

Richards will teach a course titled "Comparative Political Economics" during the spring semester.

He also has served as vice president and economist for the National Bank of Alaska, president of Alaska Pacific Bank and vice chairman of Alaska Pacific Bancorporation.