

Tundra Times Publishes Entire Bill and Report

In addition to the exact language of the entire bill as presented by the Conference Committee, approved by both Houses of Congress and sent to the President, Tundra Times is also publishing the full text of the Conference Committee's report on the bill.

Conference Committee reports on final bills are very important whenever a dispute arises as to the exact meaning of the law or a particular appli-

The federal courts put great weight in the views of the Conference Committee when deciding such disputes, and disagree with the Committee only on very rare occasions, according to counsel for A.F.N. and Tundra Times.

This means that the definitive interpretation of the land claims bill is the Conference Committee's report, for almost all purposes.
