

Miles Brandon Reelected To Office

Miles Brandon, who serves as a Senate doorkeeper in Washington, D.C. under an appointment to Senator Ernest Gruening, was reelected vice president for Alaska of the National Congress of American Indians at that organization's recent annual convention at Scottsdale, Arizona.

Miles was born at Council. He also lived at Golovin for some years. He now considers Dillingham his home.