

Tundra Times

Alaska's Oldest Statewide Newspaper

The E.I.A. Publishing Co. is interested in receiving information from individual attorneys and legal firms on a variety of matters. Please submit your rates along with background and cover letter. This is not a solicitation for services nor to guarantee a retainer. Persons and firms with experience in Alaskan corporations, Board and shareholder relations can write to: Publisher, P.O.Box 92247, Anchorage, AK 99509.

Sometimes

the best

classrooms

are blocks

from the nearest school.

If you ask Alma Solis why her kids are so smart, she'll joke that it might have something to do with her homemade salsa. But if you spend a couple of hours in the Solis home, you'll find the real reason. At five every night, Alma returns from a days work at the hair salon and joins her kids at the kitchen table. For homework. Two hours every night. Because according to Alma, all kids have potential. You just have to keep after them. And keep them well fed.

BP salutes the parents who are taking the time to help their kids realize the value of their education. As far as we're concerned, there's no better place to put your energy.

