

News from Gambell

By Grace Slwooko

That white man is a power! Us Eskimos now live modern, with so many nice things and ways he brought.

But here, out around here, as the seals and other sea animals live at our ocean, our men go hunt those. They use powerful guns now.

The wind has been blowing so hard from the north that the sea foods we eat are drifting in at the shore. We eat those vegetable-like things that drift in at our shore with our meats.

There also are government schools here, even a high school. Boy, I like those, thank you white man for showing us those modern things. I even wrote our Eskimo stories.