

photos by Barbara Crane

Going to Washington, D.C., for President George Bush's inaugural means a lot of preparation — even haircuts, as Dale Okpealuk of Teller, above right, found out recently. Other photos, moving clockwise include, the Eskimo Scouts in their full uniforms, Staff Sgt. Glenn Hunnicutt of Kotzebue and Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska. Besides their official duties the Scouts toured the Washington, D.C., area. Above, from left, 2nd Lt. Andrew Evan of Napaskiak, Sgt. 1st Class Dan Foster of Eek and Pfc. John Nagasiak of Bethel check out the "Cross Roads of the Continents" exhibit at the Smithsonian Institution. Center, Foster poses with a fur parka. Photos shown below Okpealuk include, moving down, the 1st, 2nd and 3rd Battalions.

Eskimo Scouts march in inaugural parade