

Recent acquisitions for the Anchorage Museum of History and Art include "Ciingqutaiyuk," a mask by Jack Abraham. Abraham, a Yupik Eskimo from Nelson Island, has been making masks for more than a year. Others include a watercolor landscape by Syndey M. Laurence, completed in Homer in 1930; and two works from the 13th Annual Alaska Juried Watercolor Exhibition, Pat Fridley's "View From The Kremlin" and C. Hoskins' "Jellyfish."

photo courtesy of Anchorage Museum of History and Art