

Little Denise Gives Tooth to Science

"Look it, I have another tooth out," little Denise Ellen Taylor pointed out, showing a big gap in her front teeth.

Mrs. Jesse Taylor had called earlier saying that her daughter had dropped another tooth. She said she wanted to send it to St. Louis Baby Tooth Survey.

She filled out a card and Denise's baby tooth is on the way to 'Operation Tooth' Box 222, St. Louis 5, Missouri. It will be tested for radioactive strontium 90 content.

Denise's picture appeared in March 1 issue of the Tundra Times.

Villages are urged to write for information on Baby Tooth Survey to Tundra Times, Box 1287, Fairbanks, Alaska.
