ENVIRONMENTAL COORDINATOR

The Inuit Circumpolar Conference (ICC) represents the Inuit peoples of Greenland, Canada, Russia and Alaska. ICC is searching for a person to fill the position of Environmental Coordinator for its international headquarters in Anchorage, Alaska. The initial position would be for a 5-month period, with the possibility of a permanent assignment.

Responsibilities:

The position will entail coordinating projects related to circumpolar environmental issues and concerns of the Inupiat and Yup'ik in Alaska, as well as other Arctic nations. Reporting to the President, the position will require some research, preparation of briefings and writing of reports on relevant renewable resource issues. Travel to Alaskan Inuit communities and, possibly, to other nations will be required. Working in collaboration with ICC's regional offices in Canada, Greenland and Chukotka on environmental and renewable resource issues will be an important element of the appointment. The individual will keep abreast of all information and issues pertaining to marine mammals, Arctic flora and fauna, circumpolar pollution and subsistence harvesting rights. Finally, the position will require the preparation of proposals and some fund-raising for environmental projects of importance to Arctic indigenous peoples.

A major focus of the initial 5-month assignment will be to develop a detailed proposal concerning the collection, documentation and presentation of indigenous knowledge of beluga whale in the Beaufort and Chukchi Seas.

Qualifications:

The ideal candidate must be self-motivated and possess superior writing and communication skills. A thorough understanding of Alaskan Native concerns is essential as well as experience in working with Alaskan Natives. The candidate should have a degree in natural resources, marine biology, environmental law or a related field, preferably at the Master's level. A combination element will be a proven record of having worked across several disciplines.

Salary for the position will be in the $50,000 range, depending upon experience. ICC also offers an excellent benefits package.

Application Deadline:

Qualified candidates should forward their curriculum vitae and letter of application to the Anchorage office of the ICC no later than January 3, 1994. It should be addressed to: Caleb Pungowiyi
President
Inuit Circumpolar Conference
3201 "C" Street, Suite 608
