Luke on one man mission to Maoris

Athabascan elder Howard Luke, pictured above right, photographed some of his Maori friends at a gathering in New Zealand. Luke, who is also founder of a culture camp on the banks of the Chena River, first made his international connection when a Maori delegation visited Alaska several years ago. They invited Luke to visit them and he has now been back several times, sharing stories, songs and mutual concerns about protecting cultural values.

In this season of giving the Alaska Public Radio Network, in lieu of sending out holiday cards, is once again making a charitable contribution to help people in need.

This year, our hopes and wishes go out to those at S.T.A.R.

We would like to wish everyone a happy holiday season and a wonderful New Year!
