

Tyonek Native Corporation buys controlling share of DigiTech

DigiTech Solutions, Inc. Alaska's fastest growing technology solutions and services Company, has been purchased by Tyonek Native Corporation and other investors. One hundred percent of DigiTech Solutions' stock was purchased from Carr Gottstein Foods Company on March 10, 1995, according to Jim Dunlap, president and CEO of DigiTech Solutions.

Specialists in system design, implementation, analysis, and support, DigiTech targets three areas: retail and financial point of sale systems; local and wide area networks (including client server integration); and telecommunications. A strong demand for these services has supported the company's rapid expansion, with growth from the initial six employees to the current 32 employees and offices in Anchorage and Juneau, Alaska, and Seattle, Washington.

DigiTech Solutions counts some of the Pacific Northwest's top corporations as clients. Additionally, the Alaska Journal of Commerce rated DigiTech as "Alaska's second largest service provider" in their 1994 Book of Lists.

DigiTech Solutions, Inc. is dedicated to providing their clients with technology solutions to business challenges. They demonstrate their commitment through professionalism, integrity and quality customer service.

Dunlap and Ken Partridge, vice president of DigiTech Solutions, started DigiTech on May 15, 1993, as a subsidiary of Carr Gottstein Foods Company.

Tyonek Native Corporation is a Native village corporation started under the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act.
