Wasted Fish Stink!

So does the politics as usual that threatens thousands of Alaskan jobs, Alaska's coastal communities, and marine wildlife.

Congress will soon vote on renewing our major fisheries law, the Magnuson Fishery Conservation and Management Act. Alaska's congressional delegation has the opportunity to strengthen the legislation to correct problems such as the waste of more than 700 million pounds of groundfish, halibut, crab, salmon, and noncommercial species off Alaska each year.

We must stop this waste before it ruins our fishing and wrecks Alaska's economy!

The Future of Fishing in Alaska Depends on You!

Representative Don Young introduced a strong, pro-conservation bill to renew the Magnuson Act. But last month, when the Committee he chairs voted on it, Representative Young:

- Rejected a change that would stop overfishing and protect the long-term interests of fishing communities;
- Removed a North Pacific Fisheries Conservation Plan that contained firm deadlines for cleaning up bycatch and waste;
- Allowed politics as usual to continue under his watch by giving in to special interests and exempting specific regions of the U.S. from strong conservation measures.

Call Representative Don Young (202/225-5765) and ask him to:

- Improve fisheries conservation by correcting these oversights;
- Stand firm on the other conservation provisions of his bill;
- Stand up to the powerful special interests and close the giant loopholes that promote wasteful fishing practices.

Call Senator Ted Stevens (202/224-3004) and ask him to oppose weakening the Senate bill.

Help protect fishing in Alaska!
