

Teachers visit student homes in Emmonak

by Jerry Peverall
for the Tundra Times

EMMONAK — In order to promote better communication between home and school, the Emmonak school staff visited students' homes at the beginning of the school year.

Emmonak's second grade teacher, Teri Drapsky, was pleased with the results.

"I feel our home visits were a huge success," she said. "I personally learned a great deal and had a lot of fun.

"To me, the home visits proved to be a tremendous way to gain insight about my students and the people and community of Emmonak. What a great way to open doors of communication and have fun at the same time."

The Emmonak staff plans to continue working on keeping the lines of communication open between the home and school by continuing with this and other activities. The staff feels such projects will positively affect the students' learning.

During a home visit, Emmonak parent Angie Myomik and grandmother Alice Kamkoff received a Lower Yukon School District Annual from second grade teacher Teri Drapsky. Teacher aide Lynn Bird and future student Tommy Myomik look on.