

Short term Juneau assignments hinders long range plans

People are shaking their heads and wondering what newly elected District T State Senator George Jacko (D) is up to. His jump to help form a new Republican majority gave him prestigious committee assignments, but both corporate and tribal constituents are wary his short term leadership jockeying may jeopardize subsistence preference for rural residents. The Bush delegation, led by the first Native woman elected to the State Senate, Georgianna Lincoln has strong words about his move, and are planning for Juneau strategies. Lincoln is already being urged to look towards the Governor's Mansion and a U.S. Senate race in two years.
