Dr. Don Olson, (pictured-l) of Nome, is financing an airlift of near starving reindeer on Hagemester Is. in Bristol Bay. Fred Goodhope, Sr., above, of Shishmaref is head of Olson's herding crew. The Bureau of Indian Affairs, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service are among the agencies assisting coordination of the airlift. Olson hopes to establish his own herd on the Seward Peninsula. 'Why couldn't they fly out themselves? Too weak from over crowding,' says in official.
