

Journalism multicultural newspaper workshop

Applications are being accepted for a free 10-week summer program at the University of South Carolina College of Journalism and Mass Communications for minorities who want to be newspaper reporters or copy editors. Students who have completed or have attended college and worked are eligible for the 7th annual Southeastern Multicultural Newspaper Workshop from May 30 - August 6. College seniors who graduate by May 30 are also eligible. Students who complete the workshop are not guaranteed jobs, but 75 percent of participants who complete the workshop are offered jobs.

For a brochure and application, write Southeastern Multicultural Newspaper Workshop, College of Journalism and Mass Communications, University of South Carolina, Columbia, SC 29208 or call (803) 777-6973. Applications must be postmarked by Feb. 15.