

1993 Summer newspaper career workshops for high school students

Fifteen high school minority students interested in newspaper careers will be selected for a free two-week summer workshop June 20 - July 23, 1993, at the University of South Carolina College of Journalism and Mass Communications. The deadline for applications is March 15.

Applicants must be a minority (African-American, Hispanic, Asian/Pacific Islander or American Indian or Alaska Native) and a junior or senior in high school. Students must write a 200-word essay on "What I like and Don't Like About my Local Newspaper" and submit a transcript of high school grades. Students must also complete an application form, which can be obtained by writing S.C. High School Newspaper Workshop for Minorities, College of Journalism and Mass Communications, University of South Carolina, Columbia, SC 29208 or call (803) 777-6973.