

National Guard Unit Picked to Get Training

The Alaska National Guard's 216th Medium Truck Transportation Company is the only unit in the State selected for intensified training by the Department of Defense.

The Department selected National Guard or Reserve units from every state to undergo increased training to better prepare for possible call to active duty.

The company is headquartered at Fairbanks with one platoon at Seward.