the impetus to begin "a new era for American Indians. We want to work together with Indian people in accord with the President's historic message to the Congress in July 1970. The policy of this administration will continue to be one of advancing the opportunities of our Indian citizens for self-determination, without termination of the special federal relationship with recognized Indian tribes."

DON'T MISS IT
By GUY OKAKOK

FAIRBANKS Christmas comes in once a year not in Fairbanks alone, but all over the world.

We as Eskimos here in Fairbanks, are going to place a program in First Presbyterian Church on 16th of this month December. Everyone is invited to attend. Don't miss it. Also on 28th December, a big feast will take place, same building downstairs.

Those who loved arctic food please come to the feast. I know they will serve Muktuk, kuak, fishes, Eskimo ice cream, soups of all kinds, cakes and pies also.

Anyone, who wishes to participate in some of the varieties of food that will be served, they are welcome to the feast.

Eskimo dance will come next night after feast.

BE THERE.

MOOSE STORY

By DICK NORTH
(This feature is almost entirely factual)

Scene: A small community in Southcentral Alaska this November.

Hunter: "Hello, Officer."

Officer: "Hello. This your moose?"

Hunter: "Yes sir."

Officer: "You shot this moose?"

Hunter: "Sure did."

Officer: "One heck of a fine moose."

Hunter: "Sure is."

Officer: "Very unusual moose."

Hunter: "What do you mean, Officer?"

Officer: "He's got two right hind legs."

Hunter: "He does?"

Officer: "He does."

(Later)

Magistrate: "Do you have two left hind quarters and another hunter to go with the right hind quarters?"

Hunter: "No, Your Honor."

Magistrate: "That's a waste of a game animal."

Hunter: "Yes, Your Honor."

Magistrate: "That will be $400 and costs."

Hunter: "Yes, sir."

The end.

Aggie's a winner.

Aggie Harrison, Personnel Specialist for Atlantic Richfield Company, has made a career of smoothing things out for people who have it rough. But she's spent at least as much time off the job working to help those in need. So, it was no surprise to us when Aggie received a 1973 Gold Pan Award for community service from the Anchorage Chamber of Commerce. Through the years, Aggie has helped plan and raise funds for such vital programs as the Older Persons Action Group, Head start, and Anchorage Youth Council. She's helped put together a halfway house for alcoholic women, an arts workshop for Alaskan Natives, and an emergency food and medical program. She carries a full load of speaking engagements and still has managed to help more than 35 Native youngsters through school. We're proud that a lot of people think Aggie Harrison is a winner. But, then, we've known that all along.
